

Speech and language program for the development of literacy: Reading comprehension efficacy in

Ainoa Athaide Macedo Silva
Federal University of Minas Gerais, Brazil

Background: The expected end product as formal elementary education completed is primarily a satisfactory level of reading comprehension skills, which is required to mediate text-based learning in other school subjects. However, statistics show that