

4th World Congress on

BREAST CANCER

May 08-10, 2017 Singapore

Ethics and informed consent: What breast cancer patients want to know

Janet maker
University of California, USA

When I was diagnosed in 2011, like most people, I knew almost nothing about breast cancer. I imagined that my doctors would work with me as a team to help me figure out the treatment choices that were best for me. However, I quickly found out