
Corresponding author: Ibrahim Imam, Department of Neurology, Torbay Hospital, Torquay, Devon, United Kingdom, Tel: 44 1803 614567; E-mail: iimam@nhs.net

Received March 17, 2015; Accepted November 15, 2015; Published November 20, 2015

Citation: Imam I, Turner P (2015) H1N1 Associated Encephalopathy in an Adult: Response to Intravenous Immunoglobulin Supporting an Autoimmune Pathogenesis. Received

References

1. Surana P, Tang S, McDougall M, Tong CY, Menson E, et al. (2011) Neurology. Clin Infect Dis 58: 775-784.

5. Öner A, Yılmaz S, Özlü Ö, et al. (2012) H1N1 associated encephalopathy/encephalitis with severe neurological sequelae and unique image features—a case report. J Neurol Sci 298: 110-113.

6. Tassi C, Ueda T, et al. (2012) H1N1 associated encephalopathy/encephalitis with severe neurological sequelae and unique image features—a case report. J Neurol Sci 298: 110-113.

7. Qian T, et al. (2012) H1N1 associated encephalopathy/encephalitis with severe neurological sequelae and unique image features—a case report. J Neurol Sci 298: 110-113.

8. Locuratolo N, Mannarelli D, Colonese C (2012) Unusual posterior reversible encephalopathy syndrome. J Neurol Sci 321: 114-116.

9. Völsch G, et al. (2012) H1N1 associated encephalopathy/encephalitis with severe neurological sequelae and unique image features—a case report. J Neurol Sci 298: 110-113.

10. Takanashi J, Takahashi Y, Imamura A (2012) Late delirious behavior with encephalopathy. J Neurol Sci 321: 114-116.

11. C. (2012) H1N1 associated encephalopathy/encephalitis with severe neurological sequelae and unique image features—a case report. J Neurol Sci 298: 110-113.