

Oral Cavity Parasite Prevalence and Risk Factors in Pregnant Women

Amir Hossein*

study, there was no significant relationship between age, education, month of gestation, brushing, use of mouthwash and frequency of oral protozoa in pregnant women. Still, a significant correlation between was observed among those living in pastoral regions and frequency of oral protozoa in pregnant women. In harmonious with our findings, the studies conducted and have reported a significant correlation