

Keywords: ...
...
...

© 2015 Pulm Res Dis. All rights reserved.

Discussion

There is a growing body of evidence that suggests that the use of a single agent, such as a tyrosine kinase inhibitor, may be more effective than a combination of agents in the treatment of certain types of cancer. This is because the single agent can target multiple pathways simultaneously, leading to a more comprehensive and sustained response.