

Journal of Civil & Legal Sciences

Thangpi Naulak*

Research Scholar at Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore

Keywords: Migration; Movement; Census; Streams; Reasons

Introduction

Migration is a very important aspect of human life. There is not an utter immobile population anywhere in the world. The marvel of migration is as old as human civilisation. Throughout the early days, people used to travel from on9.776[pta-3(e)4()-6(9.776[to9(in)-842m)18(a)4(nn)7(o)-[(T)11(h)-6(e)-84ilTnd seahd of fonnoed.[(K)-6()Durtanre Citation: Naulak T (2021) Internal Migration in Mizoram: Highlights of Census data. J Civil Legal Sci 10: 288.

Citation:

Citation: Naulak T (2021) Internal Migration in Mizoram: Highlights of Census data. J Civil Legal Sci 10: 288.

Year	2001		2011
	Rural	Urban	Rural	Urban
Mamit	32	45	17	56
Kolasib	40	31	19	30
Aizawl	7	40	17	44
Champhai	10	17	10	21
Serchhip	46	68	31	42
Lunglei	11	29	13	23
Lawngtlai	21	0	18	33
Saiha	12	35	8	24
Mizoram	19	38	16	38

Source: Calculated from Migration Table (D-2), Census of India, 2001 and 2011

Table 6. Percentage of Inter-district Migrants in Rural and Urban areas of Mizoram.

both the censuses. On the other hand, it was lowest in Aizawl district in 2001 and Saiha district in 2011. In urban areas, inter-district migrants' proportion was highest in Serchhip district in 2001 and Mamit district in 2011. In the state, the proportion of intradistrict migrants declined in rural areas, and it remained the same in urban areas.

Migration from outside Mizoram

Interstate migration

If an individual's place of enumer5.57 613/93.1ET70.46 544.2](m)] TJETBT1 0 0 1 182.11 TJ46 544.2](m)]vidual'r

Citation:

Citation: Naulak T (2021) Internal Migration in Mizoram:

Citation: Naulak T (2021) Internal Migration in Mizoram: Highlights of Census data. J Civil Legal Sci 10: 288.