

Models and Importance of Health Education and Planning

Vishwa Virendra*

Abstract

Our study showed that Health education was significantly associated with medication direction discrepancy, which is in accordance with previous findings that low health literacy participants were more likely to misunderstand dosage instructions and misinterpret directions. Misinterpretation of instructions could be severe, especially for patients taking cardiovascular medications.

