

Study on Flow Chemistry

Lucimara Lopes Da Silva*

Department of Chemistry, University of Campinas, Brazil

Perspec i e

Flow chemistry is a strong and growing area in chemistry. It offers many advantages, such as safety, efficiency, and the ability to perform reactions under conditions that are difficult to achieve in batch processes. This perspective discusses the current state of flow chemistry and its potential for future research and development.