

Introduction

Diabetic kidney infection one of the most well-known micro vascular confusions of appears to build the gamble of cardiovascular mortality [1]. Therefore, for improved long-term health and survival, early identification of potential risk factors and a preventative strategy against are essential. A plasma glucose level that is above the normal range but not high enough to meet the diagnostic criteria of addition to laboratory indicators of prediabetes, showed a significant dose-dependent relationship.

---

Discussion