

Neonatal Resuscitation and Pediatric Emergency Care

Department of NICU, The University of Hong Kong-Shenzhen Hospital, Shenzhen, China

Yin Chiug, Department of NICU, The University of Hong Kong-Shenzhen Hospital, Shenzhen, China, Email: y_chiug@gmail.com

2-May-2024, Manuscript No nnp-25-160599, 4-May-2024, PreQC nnp-25-160599 (PQJ/TT 0w 0 5e Un-.aspects of pediatric medicine, pro interventions to newborns and children facing critical health situations. e early stages of a child's life, particularly during birth and in the rst few years, are marked by various challenges, many of which require prompt and eective medical intervention. Neonatal resuscitation refers to the medical procedures used to assist a newborn who is struggling to breathe or show signs of inadequate circulation immediately aer birth.-rq best possible care in emergency settings [8].