

Fractures in the facial region is one of the most common during the maxillofacial injuries which involves facial bones and the cranial bones. These pediatric bone is the other factor which changes the fracture pattern and nature. Mostly the green stick fracture can be seen in pediatric patients [6].