

Keywords: Electronic health record; Information and communication technology

Introduction

Appropriate information and Health Information Systems (HIS) are seen as crucial to strengthen the health system in developing countries [1] and in pursuing the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) [2]. On the ground, however, HIS and especially hospital information systems development in developing countries has proven difficult due to organisational complexity [3], fragmented and

Hospital in 1921, and it was nally opened on 9th
